

Cancerandwork.ca – Cancer and work provides information, resources, and interactive tools from around the globe to support with returning, remaining, changing work or looking for work after a diagnosis of cancer.

Cancer and Work

Language / La langue: English

Search

Survivors

Healthcare providers

Employers

Tools

Research

Events

About us

Contact us

+Donate

I am a cancer survivor

Start

I am a healthcare provider

Start

I am an employer

Start

- Content and Resources
- Interactive Tools
- Videos and Webinars
- Links to helpful information
 - The impact of cancer on work
 - Self- and work ability
 - Job accommodation ideas

Dr. Maheu, McGill University, Ingram School of Nursing, and Ms. Parkinson, BC Cancer Agency, Provincial Vocational

Rehabilitation Counsellor have partnered with an interdisciplinary team of experts and community partners in return to work and cancer to create the first Canadian Cancer and Work website.

Production of the Cancerandwork.ca website has been made possible through financial support from Health Canada to the Canadian Partnership Against Cancer

The screenshot shows the website's interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with categories: Survivors, Healthcare providers, Employers, Tools, Research, Events, About us, Contact us, +Donate, Facebook, and Twitter. A search bar is on the right. Below the navigation, there's a breadcrumb trail: "You are here: Cancer and Work > Survivors > Returning to work / staying at work". The main article is titled "Returning to work / staying at work" by the Cancer and Work Team. It features a list of 9 steps: 1. Understand your current abilities, 2. Understand your challenges, 3. Communicate with your healthcare team, 4. Consider strategies to improve your work abilities, 5. Identify supports, 6. Develop a formal return to work plan, 7. Prepare for the first days, weeks, months back at work, 8. Monitor your progress, 9. Manage expectations at your workplace. Below the list is a video player titled "Tina - Work and money" with a play button. The video is about "Steps in getting ready to return to work".

For further information and to receive updates on the project, contact info@cancerandwork.ca.

Join us on social media : #cancerandwork and @cancerandwork

www.Cancerandwork.ca